BYD — Recruitment

Re: IT Business Analyst — Hoofddorp

Tilburg, 7 September 2026

I applied for the IT Business Analyst role because it sits exactly where I work best: between business stakeholders and the systems that serve them. At Netvix I established operational BI as a new workstream — gathering requirements from operations, translating them into data models and reporting, and owning the result through daily use.

BYD's European growth means processes that were built for one scale now serve another — that is precisely the kind of gap I like closing: document the process as it is, find where the data disagrees with reality, and ship the fix. I build my own tooling when needed (production TypeScript/React, Python, SQL) and my portfolio at franciscorau.com shows everything working, not described.

I am based 20 minutes from Hoofddorp's time zone of work — Tilburg — available immediately, and happy to show any of my systems in a first conversation.
